What is an Eco-Journey?

NSS Eco-Journeys are thoughtfully curated overseas learning experiences set within living landscapes.

Participants visit conservation sites, engage with local communities and champions, experience nature up close, and reflect on what sustainability looks like in practice.

Each Eco-Journey is designed and led by the Directors of Nature Society Singapore, in partnership with leaders from regional communities and NGOs.

About Eco- Journey (Anlung Pring)

Eco-Journey (Anlung Pring) is designed for participants to experience the following:

1) Conservation Business: Journey into Cambodian rice fields to learn how conserving the Sarus Crane also benefits rice farmers directly. Marvel at the world's tallest flying bird and take a boat ride into the exclusive core conservation area (not open to the general public).

2) Social Capital & Community Support: Birdwatch in their rice fields and meet the farmer committees who work together to protect the cranes and the habitats. Understand how collective action on the ground and local networks sustain both livelihoods and biodiversity.

3) Conservation Governance: Witness how water management, invasive species control and restoration shape the landscape at Boeng Prak Lpov. Understand how governance and policy lead to conservation outcomes. Do your part for conservation by partaking in inundated tree-planting.
